Inductive Bible Study Method

Welcome back to IBSM

Bite 02

Lesson Objectives

Upon completion of today's lesson, you will be able to:

- Define the process of Bible Study
- Explain the three steps of IBSM
- Understand the importance of knowing how to read

Bible study is . . .

methodicalness

Method is Methodicalness…

Involves:

1. Take certain steps
2. In certain order
3. To bring about certain results

Bible Study is Methodicalness

Personal study that produces definitive life change.

NotebookLM

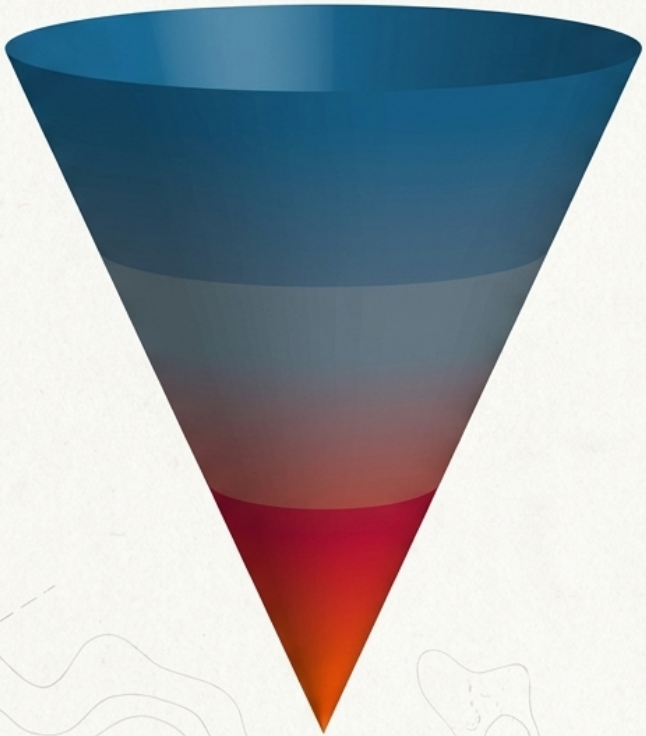
The end product

- Personal study of the Scriptures
- Study that produces life change

The process

- Observation
- Interpretation
- Application

The Three Phases of the Expedition



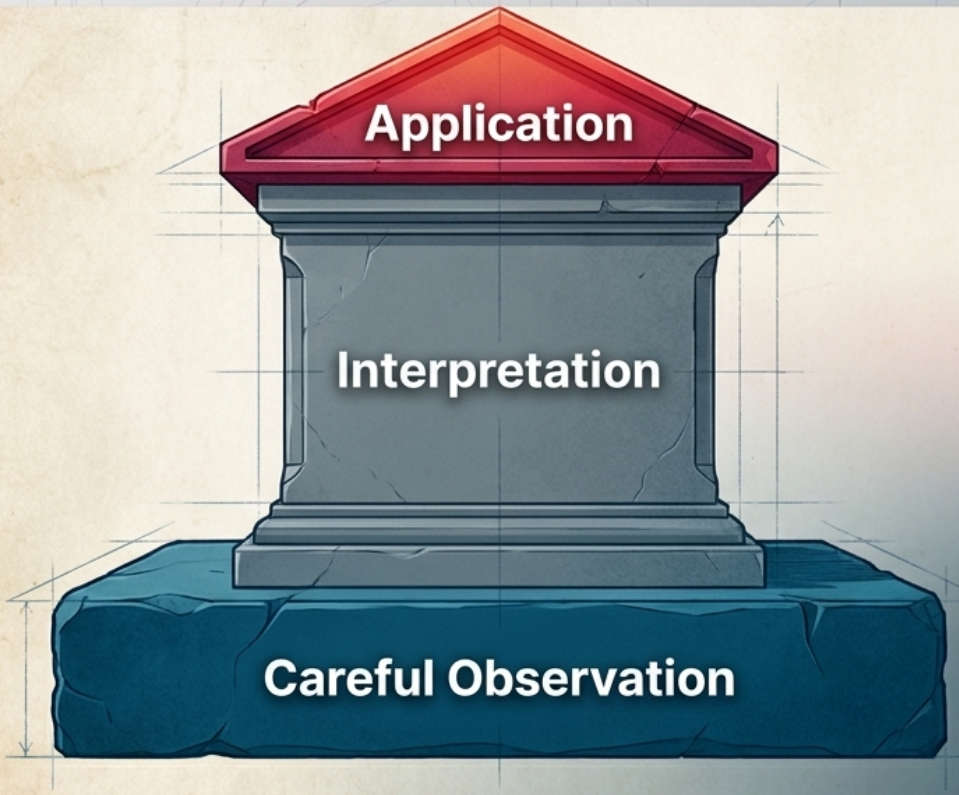
01
Observation
Gathering all details.

02
Interpretation
Distilling the core meaning.

03
Application
Focusing into targeted personal action.

NotebookLM

The Structural Integrity of Study



Accurate interpretation and correct application rest on careful observation.

A narrow or weak foundational base will cause the higher levels of understanding to collapse.

I. Observation

Laying the Bedrock

What do I see?

Phase 01: Observation

The foundational act of gathering evidence before assigning meaning.

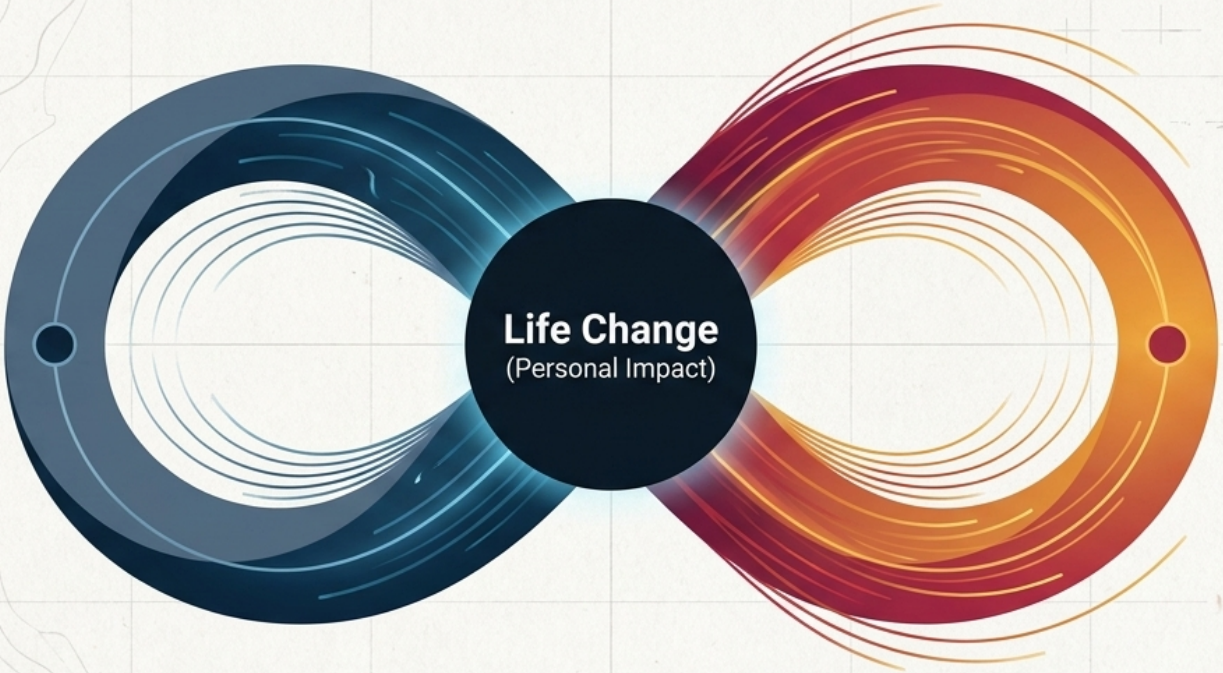
DO IT NOW!

The Flow of Truth

Receptive
Allow Scripture to impact you internally. No amount of truth helps without receptivity.



Reproductive
Reproducing that impact externally.

The Failure: Isolation from the world.

The Goal: Involvement in the world.

Review

#1 Observation

#2 Interpretation

#3 Application

Two Approaches to the Text

	Intermediary Reliance	Direct Discovery
View of the Text	Text treated as an obscure riddle requiring external experts.	Text treated as an accessible revelation.
Mechanism of Learning	Second-hand consumption of others' evaluations.	Methodical, first-hand acquaintance.
Ultimate Result	Stagnation and isolation	Joy of discovery and deep involvement in the world

NotebookLM

How does it work for me?

Phase 03: Application

Turning interpretation into actionable life change.

INTERPRETATION

APPLICATION

What does it mean to me?

Accurate interpretation and correct application rest on careful observation

Bible study is . . .

methodicalness

Bible study is . . .

methodicalness with a view to becoming receptive and reproductive

Receptive and Reproductive

- No amount of truth will help you unless you are receptive to it.
- Before you can make an impact on the society, you must first allow Scripture to impact you,
- Once you have been impacted, then you should reproduce such impact on others. (Reproductive)

Receptive and Reproductive

- Involvement in the world.
- Isolation from the world

Bible study is . . .

methodicalness with a view to becoming receptive and reproductive by means of first-hand acquaintance with the Word.

First Hand Acquaintance

Some Reasons:

1. It will enable you to think for yourself (Bible was not given as a riddle, but as a revelation).
2. It will allow you to evaluate the thoughts of others. NOTE: "Sola Scriptura" was a key thrust during the Reformation.
3. It will give you joy of personal discovery.
4. It will enable you to "communicate" with the author directly instead of through an intermediary, so you can deepen your love for the Lord.

The Rewards of First-Hand Acquaintance

Think for Yourself.

The Bible is a revelation, not a riddle.

Evaluate Others.

Rely on primary text, echoing the Reformation's thrust of Sola Scriptura.

Joy of Discovery.

The personal thrill of uncovering truth directly.

Direct Communication.

Bypassing intermediaries to deepen love for the Lord directly with the author.
